Johnson, David, 1928-2013

About this records creator:

Authorized Heading	Johnson, David, 1928-2013

Brief Biographical Sketch   David Johnson was born in England in 1928 and received his education at Loughborough College and Byam Shaw School of Drawing and Painting. He immigrated to Canada with his family in 1973. In 1978, they settled in Regina, Saskatchewan where Johnson worked full-time as an artist, specializing in stained glass works. In 1996, the Johnsons moved to Tyvan, Saskatchewan where David Johnson continued his work as an artist and sculptor. He died in 2013.

Biographical Sketch   David Johnson was born in England in 1928, and attended public schools near London. Despite an interest in art, he attended Loughbourough College from 1946-1948 and became a teacher. However, in 1950 he began night and Sunday classes at a local art school, and in 1952 won a four year scholarship to the Byam Shaw School of Drawing and Painting. Completing his degree in 1956, he continued to study as a graduate scholar at Byam Shaw until 1957. It was also during this time that he studied classical draughtsmanship and stained glass. Johnson spent six years as studio assistant to renowned English mural artist Brian Thomas, doing work on windows at Westminster Abbey, the chapel of the Order of the British Empire and the American Memorial Chapel at St. Paul's Cathedral in London.

Johnson immigrated to Ontario, Canada in 1973 with his wife and six children. He worked first for Encyclopaedia Britannica (Manitoba-Saskatchewan region), but in 1978 resumed working full-time as an artist. He started his company, David Johnson Studio, in 1979 (the company was incorporated in 1984). The family settled in Regina, Saskatchewan and Johnson designed his first Canadian windows in Wawota, Moose Jaw and Regina during 1979. He was elected a professional member of the Stained Glass Association of America, based on recommendations from clients and existing members, and continued to hold membership in the British Society of Master Glass Painters. His studio work focused on conservation, restoration and original stained glass pieces. The majority of the windows created were for churches throughout Saskatchewan and Ontario; however, Johnson created works in almost every other province in Canada. While the studio was in operation, Johnson was active in the art scene in Saskatchewan as a director of Neutral Ground Gallery (Regina), and as a director of Saskatchewan Architectural Heritage Society and Heritage Regina. He also worked as the arts editor for Grain, a publication for Saskatchewan writers and artists, contributed articles to the Commonwealth and was commissioned for several sculptures and portrait paintings.

In 1996, David Johnson and his wife Christine moved to Tyvan, Saskatchewan. Johnson was awarded the Municipal Heritage Award from the City of Regina in 1997 for his interior restoration work. He was also awarded with the Lieutenant Governor of Saskatchewan Heritage Architecture Excellence Award in 2007 in the Exterior Restoration category, and in 2010 in the Adaptive Reuse category. Johnson's commissioned works included portraits, sculptures, courtroom drawings for television and stained glass in churches, hospitals, commercial sites and homes.

David Johnson died near Tyvan on December 14, 2013.

Scope and Content   This fonds consists of records created, accumulated and used by David Johnson in his work as an artist from the 1950s to 2008.
                               The records include project working files of David Johnson Studio, Inc. relating to stained glass commissions for homes, public buildings and churches. The fonds also includes Johnson's original design paintings in the medium of gouache; court trial sketches, primarily of the Colin Thatcher murder trial, in pen, pencil and watercolour; and photographs of selected artistic works of Johnson's including sculptures, drawings, paintings and prints.

                               The fonds has been arranged into four series: Project Files;
                               Designs for Stained Glass Windows and Artwork; Other Artistic Works and Personal.

                               The types of records included are paintings, drawings, photographs, correspondence and clippings.

Access Restrictions   Records are open for research use.

Terms Governing Use   Use, publication and/or reproduction of records are subject to the terms of an agreement with the donor dated 29 November 1996 and to conditions of the Copyright Act. Please consult reference archivist for assistance.

Reference Tools   SAFA 91 (old guide GR 586) consists of a fonds level description, file level listings of textual records, and item level descriptions of the paintings and drawings.

Physical Condition   Records are in good physical condition.

                               Some of the rolled paintings are dirty and/or fragile.

Conservation Note   Conservation practices in place at the time of arrangement were applied to records in old guide GR 586. In 2006 and 2008, archival staff replaced the original file folders with acid-free folders. If notations existed on the file folders, they were photocopied and placed in the front of the file. Newspaper clippings and facsimiles were photocopied by archival staff. Oversize records were stored in appropriate oversize storage, and paintings and drawings were separated by acid-free tissue paper.

Accruals   No further accruals are expected.

A CHECKLIST OF THE RECORDS OF DAVID JOHNSON STUDIO, INC.

Saskatchewan Archives Board, Regina
1997

David Johnson was born in England in 1928, and attended public schools near London. Despite an interest in art, he attended Loughborough College from 1946-1948 and became a teacher. However, in 1950 he began night and Sunday classes at a local art school, in 1952 winning a four year scholarship to the Byam Shaw School of Drawing and painting. Completing his degree in 1956, he continued to study as a graduate scholar at Byam Shaw until 1957. It was also during this time that he studied classical draughtmanship and stained glass. Johnson spent six years as studio assistant to renowned English mural artist Brian Thomas, doing work on windows at Westminster Abbey, the chapel of the Order of the British Empire and the American Memorial Chapel at St. Paul's Cathedral in London.

Johnson immigrated to Ontario, Canada in 1973 with his wife and six children. He worked first for Encyclopaedia Britannica (Manitoba-Saskatchewan region), but in 1978 resumed full time art. The family settled in Regina and Johnson designed his first Canadian windows in Wawota, Moose Jaw and Regina during 1979. He was elected a professional member of the Stained Glass Association of America, based on recommendations from clients and existing members, and continued to hold membership in the British Society of Master Glass Painters. His studio work focused on conservation, restoration and original stained glass pieces. The majority of the windows created were for churches thoughout Saskatchewan and Ontario, although Johnson did work for almost every other province in Canada. While the studio was in operation, Johnson was active in the art scene in Saskatchewan as a director of Neutral Ground Gallery (Regina), and as a director of Saskatchewan Architectural Heritage Society and Heritage Regina. He also worked as the arts editor for Grain, a publication for Saskatchewan writers and artists, contributed articles to the Commonwealth, and was commissioned for several sculptures and portrait paintings.

The collection consists, in part, of Johnson's working files for stained glass commissions. His daughter Ruth operated a studio in Ontario for a period in the 1980s. The Regina-based studio also created private commissions for homes, as well as public buildings such as the South East Leisure Centre (1990), and Casino Regina (1995). Many of the church commissions were restorations of original windows. They range from Arcola United Church, to St. Joseph's Hospital Chapel, Gravelbourg, to the historically significant Holy Trinity Church in Stanley Mission which was completely restored by the province in 1984. The collection also includes a file on an exhibition by Johnson at Neutral Ground in 1986 called Three Loves.

The balance of this collection includes Johnson's original artwork. The 159 designs were created by Johnson for clients throughout Saskatchewan and the rest of Canada. Most of the designs were done for church windows although a few items are for corporate offices, recreational areas, and private residences. The principal medium is gouache. Many designs have been mounted and matted for either presentation or display.

In 1996 Johnson moved to Tyvan, Saskatchewan where he continues to work as an artist and sculptor.

These records were received on 22 August 1996 and assigned accession number R96-441. The records have been listed alphabetically, maintaining the original order of the system used by Johnson.
