About this records creator:

Authorized Heading Black, Henry, 1875-1960

Brief Bio./Admin. History Henry Black was born in 1875. He moved to Saskatchewan, where he established his professional career as a building contractor, real estate developer and property owner. Black also served as an alderman and mayor (1918-1919) of the City of Regina and as chairman of the Saskatchewan Relief Commission (1931-1934). He died in Regina in 1960.

Biographical Sketch/Administrative History Henry Black was born on February 14, 1875 near Ottawa, Ontario. He attended public school and a local business college in the area. Black operated a general store in Leonard, Ontario until 1898, when he moved to Kaslo, British Columbia. In 1903, he moved to Regina, North-West Territories (now Saskatchewan), where he operated a menswear store prior to establishing his career as a building contractor, real estate developer and property owner.

In 1908, Black went into partnership with Archibald W. McGregor in the firm McGregor and Black. After the firm ceased to operate around 1911, Black worked independently, constructing houses, commercial and public buildings. In 1917, he established the Prairie Biscuit Company with a group of local investors; the company ceased operations in 1919 due to the sugar shortage imposed by World War I. Black served as an alderman (1915-1917, 1923-1924) and mayor of the City of Regina (1918-1919). He also served as chairman of the Saskatchewan Relief Commission (1931-1934) and was a member of various boards, including the Regina General Hospital Board. Around 1938, Black retired from politics but continued to manage his business interests until his death in Regina on August 29, 1960.

Black was made a Commander of the British Empire (CBE) in 1935 in recognition of his work with the Saskatchewan Relief Commission.

Black married Jennie Lenore Barker on December 15, 1910. The Blacks had five children: Henry, Charles, William, Elizabeth, and Thomas.
