Direct Acquisition from Records Creator	The federal Department of Northern Affairs and Natural Resources transferred these records to the Saskatoon office, Provincial Archives of Saskatchewan, in one accession in 1956: 453 (S) (1956).
Scope and Content	This series consists of homestead records created, accumulated and used by the federal Department of the Interior, Dominion Lands Administration between 1872 and 1930. Each file pertains to a specific parcel of land (typically a quarter section or portion thereof) available for settlement under the provisions of the Dominion Lands Act, 1872 (An Act respecting the Public Lands of the Dominion, S.C. 1872, c. 23). A file usually covers the period from date of entry until grant of patent, at which time file was closed. Files contain information pertaining to various types of land grants including homesteads; pre-emptions; scrip grants to North West Métis entrants and to South African volunteers; grants to soldiers of the Great War; and homesteads on First Nations reserves. The fonds also includes: applications for Letters Patent that were separated from certain original homestead files and filed independently; and administrative records regarding the management of lands designated for schools.

The types of records included are applications for entry and for patent; land condition and valuation reports; land transfer documents; sale deeds and receipts; notarial certificates; naturalization documents; cattle grazing and haying permits; soldier land settlements; maps; and correspondence.

To facilitate access to the records in this series via the Threshold description tree, the series has been arranged into sub-series, sub-sub-series and file parts.

THE HOMESTEAD RECORDS

The homestead files in the Saskatchewan Archives were created by the Canadian and Saskatchewan governments in placing settlers on unpatented crown lands. These two groups of records thus provide a fairly complete documentation of the settlement on "free lands" from the early 1870's, through the periods of large influx of immigrants prior to 1914, to the movement into the northern areas in the 1930-1950 period. The Canadian government records were created by the Department of the Interior and the Saskatchewan government records were created by the Lands Branch. This branch was part of the Department of Natural Resources from 1930 until 1947 when it was transferred to the Department of Agriculture.

I Department of the Interior

3491 boxes

The files from the Canadian Government were created by the Head Office of the Lands Branch of the former Department of the Interior while it was in charge of settlement on Dominion Lands from 1871 to 1930. Until a patent was issued, the right to the land was vested in the Dominion Government. When the lands were patented in the name of a settler or corporate body, the land was registered at the local land titles office in the name of the new owner. The Dominion government file was then closed unless there were seed grain liens against the land. The files contain three basic documents showing how the settlers complied with the regulations of the various Dominion Land Acts: an application for entry on the land, an application for letters patent, and a notification that the patent has been granted. Some files also contain other documents such as a declaration of abandonment, claim for inspection or other statutory statements concerning occupancy of the land. Much of the correspondence included in the files arose from the settlers' failure or inability to meet the requirements of the Dominion Lands Acts, disputed ownership of the lands, or inability to pay seed grain liens. This correspondence therefore provides a useful source of information concerning the problem and hardships faced by the settlers.

There is a rough chronological order to the files, however it was broken by using the prefix "A" to signify the number 1,000,000. After using this prefix for a while it was decided to revert to the original numerical designation and numbering was continued from where it had been broken off previously. The "A" files thus antedate some of the other files.

These "homestead" records were received by the Archives of Saskatchewan in 1956. They are arranged in numerical order from No. 15346 to 5682510. The "A" series is numbered from 3A to 149560A. These two series are contained in 3266 document boxes. Although in numerical order, there are breaks in the consecutive numbering of the files. These breaks are for files for lands in Manitoba and Alberta, or for files which were removed for other official purposes when in possession of the Department of the Interior.

A third group of records occupies 13 document boxes and consists of only the applications for letters patent made prior to 1900. These files were numbered at the Archives of Saskatchewan and are hyphenated numbers, eg. 290-1. In a number of cases, there are other files in the larger group of homestead records referring to the same land, and the same settler, as those listed in the applications prior to 1900.

There are three finding aids for these three groups of records:

1. An alphabetical card index created by the Archives of Saskatchewan, of the settler or the corporate body receiving the land. The card gives the name, land location and file number. The asterisk on the card indicates that there is no Sworn Statement indicating the age of the settler. (For a fuller explanation of the rules followed in typing index cards, see Appendix A.)
2. Township plans giving the file number for each quarter section, or other division of land. The original volumes of the township plans were transferred to the Archives of Saskatchewan from the Department of the Interior and copies were made for office use. The originals have been preserved.

3. Original ledgers containing the names of the settlers roughly arranged in alphabetical order. This is an incomplete listing but gives some assistance in obtaining the location of the homesteaders' land. The file number can then be obtained by referring to the other finding aids. Although this listing has been superseded by the card index, it is useful when locating information for lands which were patented after 1930 or for which there are no files.

There is also a numerical listing of all files transferred from the Dominion government. Copies of this list have been shelved with the records.

School Land Records

105 boxes

The Records of the disposal of lands reserved for the School Endowment Fund came from the Department of the Interior. They are in a non-consecutive numerical order similar to the homestead records. It is difficult to find a specific file as no alphabetical index has been transferred to the Archives and the files are not arranged according to land location. The files show who purchased the land but since they usually contain no other information, the creation of a card index was not considered necessary.
