A CHECKLIST
OF THE RECORDS OF
SASKATCHEWAN TELECOMMUNICATIONS

Saskatchewan Archives Board, Regina
1983

Introduction

The Province of Saskatchewan assumed its role of regulation of, and participation in, the telephone system in 1908 with the creation of the Department of Railways, Telegraphs and Telephones. The stated goal of the first minister of the department was "the establishment and bringing into actual working operations of an efficient system of telephones designed to meet the requirements of the Province in an up-to-date and satisfactory manner."

In 1913 the Department of Telephones was created and it has continued to the present. From 1921 to 1953 it was known as the Department of Telephones and Telegraphs. In 1947 the administration and operation of the public telephone system was transferred to Saskatchewan Government Telephones, a Crown corporation. In 1969 the Crown corporation adopted a new name - Saskatchewan Telecommunications.

The directories for the period dating from 1905 to 1980 were transferred to the Saskatchewan Archives Board in 1981 with the Accession No. R81-607. Directories published since 1980 are added to the collection on a regular basis.
